

To the Policy Holders of the Equitable Life Assurance Society:

The burning of the Home Office Building at 120 Broadway will cause but temporary inconvenience in the transaction of our business. The loss of the building itself will make no reduction in the Society's assets, for it has not been carried as an asset on account of its small size, its age and the high value of the land on which it rests. The securities and important records are protected by fireproof vaults, which are intact. Most of the office force and records were removed some time ago to the Society's new building, No. 2 Albany Street. The Executive Offices of the Society and the Cashier's Department have been established in the City Investing Building, No. 1065 Broadway. The Society will occupy the 2d, 3d and 4th floors of that building. This will for the time being be the home office of the Society, where all business with the public will be transacted, including the receipt of premiums and the payment of claims.

W. A. DAY, President.

Here Is Your Chance To Save Money When Buying Coal

If you're buying a single ton of coal or ordering ten tons at one time—you can save money! Don't say, "Send me some coal for the furnace and stove," and then leave it to your dealer. Buy your coal as you would any other household necessity. Buy coal that gives the most returns for your money. Buy the best! And the best coal on the market to-day is

KATHERINE ANTHRACITE

Guaranteed freer from impurities than any other coal mined

K. A. is a free-burning, red-ash coal, different from any other mined because it's better. Its high quality is consistently maintained in every ton you get, for every ton comes from the same mine.

K. A. is the most economical coal you can buy. Aside from its high heating qualities there is greater bulk to a ton of K. A. than in ordinary coal. Better yet, K. A. requires a very much thinner fire and with a slow draft will give out greater heat and last longer than any other coal. At the same time K. A. will instantly respond to the draft and give you a red-hot fire in no time.

Just follow these directions and you'll save money on the first ton of K. A. you use:

Do not put too much K. A. on the fire at a time. Use about half as much as ordinary coal. After putting on fresh coal give plenty of draft with chimney damper. When coal is well started decrease draft by checking damper. This coal does not need as much draft as ordinary anthracite.

ORGANIC ACT JUST

Defense of Half-and-Half System in District.

AUTHORIZED BY CONGRESS

President Oyster's Annual Report to Chamber of Commerce.

UPBUILDING OF THE CAPITAL

Opposition to Universal Water

Meter System Proposed by Commissioners.

After a spirited siege of balloting, lasting from noon yesterday when the polls were opened, until 8 o'clock last night, the Chamber of Commerce announced the selection of ten members of the board of directors. The new directors and the votes received by each were as follows: F. T. Moran, 24; Glen Broughton, 21; Albert Schultze, 22; John Dolph, 20; S. W. Guy, 18; D. J. Kaufman, 17; George Y. Worthington, 16; O. C. DeMott, 15; M. A. Leese, 14; and F. C. Handy, 13.

Twenty nominees for the ten places were balloted for, and 404 ballots were cast. The tellers were ready to announce the results within a short time after the polls closed, owing to the permission which had been given them to count the ballots during the day at intervals of two hours.

Earlier in the day Capt. James F. Oyster had been re-elected unanimously as president of the chamber, and similar action had been taken in regard to D. J. Callahan for first vice president and Charles J. Bell for second vice president.

At an early date the board of directors will hold a meeting and elect a treasurer, secretary and general counsel. A Lisner will be re-elected treasurer, Thomas Grant secretary and Chapin Brown, general counsel.

President Oyster's Report.
President Oyster laid before the chamber his annual report, covering the activities of the organization for that period and making a number of important recommendations. His report was, in part, as follows:

"The growth of the Washington Chamber of Commerce since its establishment in 1907 reflects great credit upon our business community. Our aggregate membership today is 700, and nowhere else is found a group of thoughtful and substantial men, more sincerely and serviceably devoted to promoting the permanent welfare of any American community.

"What is everybody's business soon becomes nobody's business, unless somebody is unselfishly engaged enough to make himself everybody's attorney. Such self-appointed attorneys for the public welfare are the very salt of the earth. The work of such a body as the Chamber of Commerce must not, however, be done by a few men; the problems are too various, the burden is too heavy.

Tribute to Former Leaders.
"It is sometimes said that democratic communities are ungrateful. It is certainly true that the eminent services of Gov. Shepherd in the building of Washington were not appreciated during his lifetime; but it is also true that the great governor's work stands today as an enduring monument to his energy, his ability, his foresight. In the case of Crosby S. Noyes this community showed its gratitude for his splendid devotion to civic betterment in countless ways during his life; and his spirit still lives among us.

"Happily, we have with us a man who should enjoy the gratification of hearing from the lips of the community 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant,' for his distinguished services in making Washington a better place to live in—I mean, of course, Charles C. Glover. Washingtonians are grateful to believe to all the men who like Shepherd and Noyes and Glover, though in smaller measure than these, promote the public welfare to the very best of their abilities and opportunities.

Water Tax Increase Discussed.
"Under an order of the Commissioners of the District, dated September 30, 1911, there is to be an increase in water rates, which becomes effective July 1, 1912. The increased income will be used to complete the installation of universal water meters within a six-year period. The estimated cost of installation is $819,000. At the present time, according to the Engineer Commissioner, only about $80,000 per cent of such approved estimates shall be levied and assessed upon the taxable properties and privileges of said District other than the property of the United States and the District of Columbia.

"Each and every suggestion, from whatever source, to violate our municipal constitution should be resisted, not only by the thoughtful and responsible citizen of the District of Columbia, but by every one who would not have the extra cost of carrying on the business of the federal city saddled upon the persons who happen to reside here. Indeed, according to an investigation made by our Chamber of Commerce, and recently published, 'statistics show that, at the present time, the taxpaying citizens of the District of Columbia pay about $16 per capita for the upkeep of the nation's capital, while the other 62,000,000 citizens of the nation pay only 5¢ per capita.'

President Oyster also discussed the proposed law for a public utilities commission for the District, strongly advocating such a measure. He discussed measures to better the public health, commented at length upon the public schools and the future development of Washington along the line laid down by the McMillan park commission.

Mr. Lisner, as treasurer, made his report for the year, showing the financial condition, with several thousand dollars laid aside for a building fund.

BUSINESS MEN TO MEET IN WASHINGTON TUESDAY
The National Board of Trade, representing an army of business men, through its constituent membership of boards of trade, chambers of commerce and allied trade organizations, will hold its forty-second annual meeting at the New Willard Hotel, beginning Tuesday, January 16, and extending over three days.

Among the large number of constituent bodies, members of the National Board of Trade, are four organizations in Philadelphia, five in New York, two in Washington, three in Chicago, two in Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Wheeling, W. Va., Wilmington, Del.; Boston, Norfolk and Newport News, Va.; Cleveland, Galveston, Savannah, Augusta, Ga.; the American Food Trade Association, the American Warehousemen's Association, the American Exporters and Importers' Association, the Cigar Manufacturers' Association, the National Irrigation Association and the Central Supply Association with headquarters at Chicago.

This clearing house for the intellectual business thought of the nation, according to its president, Frank D. Lo Leander of Philadelphia, seeks not only to promote the efficiency and usefulness of the various business and commercial organizations of the United States, but to obtain unity and harmony of action with reference to trade usages and laws.

Will Discuss Corporation Problem.
With a view of correlating the various angles from which the corporation problem is viewed, the National Board of Trade has set apart Wednesday, January 17, as "Corporation day," and from addresses received by the secretary, A. T. Anderson, will be attended by representatives from all the great commercial organizations included within its membership, as well as from the leading associations in the country. Among those who will deliver addresses on this occasion are Charles Nagel, Secretary of Commerce and Labor; Senators John Sharp Williams of Mississippi and Charles H. Townsend of Michigan; John W. Wamsaker of Philadelphia; Charles A. Proctor of the Interstate Commerce Commission and Dr. E. A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia.

"The object in taking up the corporation question at this time," said President Lo Leander, "is that from a strictly business point of view the corporation question and the banking question are so closely related that it is almost impossible to indicate where one ends and the other begins. The organization will give its annual and, I had almost said, public morals, since cleanliness is next to godliness. But, even if it were thought desirable to dole out water gratis by means of the household, why should the cost of the meter be saddled upon the consumer alone? The meter is an integral part of the water plant. The water plant should be paid for upon precisely the same principles that the roadways are paid for. I mean upon the half-and-half basis. You will recall that, agreeably to an old-fashioned century promise to 'conduct water through the city' and thus 'save a heavy tax that arises in other cities,' the nation built the water supply system permitted the city to use its surplus water. After 1878 the Lydecker tunnel was built virtually upon the half-and-half basis—a fair proposition. But it certainly was not fair, when the tunnel was managed by agents of the federal government to confiscate about one million dollars of the District's money to pay the debt thus shamefully incurred. To return to one can seriously object to financing the water plant upon the half-and-half basis. The cost of the water meters should be placed as a part of the cost of the extension of the plant, certainly be placed upon that basis and no other.

"However, it is not Congress, but the Commissioners of the District—our own Commissioners—who have taken the initiative in deciding to violate our municipal constitution and pay the cost of doing out the water to the District consumers wholly out of the pockets of those consumers. Has the District been betrayed by its own leaders? I am not a friend? I may add that there is serious question whether any part of the cost of this extension of the water plant should be paid by the District as consumer. The District, as taxpayer, and not as consumer, should pay one-half toward any necessary or desirable extension of the water plant.

Retirement Plan Favored.
"As a measure of economy and efficiency I urge retirement funds for the departmental employees and for the policemen, firemen and public school teachers of the District of Columbia. Just as I would not have our federal government lag behind the other civilized nations of the modern world in this respect, so I would not have the capital of this nation lag behind the great powers of the world, not only of Europe, but of America itself.

"With reference to the proposed retirement funds for employees of the District of Columbia, I must say with all the emphasis of which my nature is capable that the cost of the funds is an integral part of the whole cost of the municipal services in question and must be met as such in any intelligent system of accounting. The half-and-half principle for the payment of the expenses of the District of Columbia by the Treasury of the United States and the taxpayers of the city was established by act of Congress in 1878. That act has been declared by the Supreme Court of the United States in a memorable decision, to be intended to dispose of the whole question of government for this District. It is, as it were, a constitution for the District. In the retirement fund question the District employees the fundamental half-and-half principle of our municipal constitution must certainly not be violated.

Quotes President Taft.
"At the citizens' dinner in this city the 8th of May, 1906, President Taft spoke these memorable words: 'Washington is a federal city. And that idea tingles down to the feet of every man, whether he comes from Washington state, or Los Angeles or Texas, when he starts to feel that this is my city; I own a part of this capital and I envy for the time being those who are able to spend their time here.'

"Because, then, Washington is the federal city, belonging in a very real sense to all the people of the nation, it must be administered in a fashion befitting the national dignity. Such administration, financially considered, is comparatively expensive not in one but in all departments. The individuals who happen to reside in the federal city should certainly not have saddled upon them the cost of such administration. Consequently, in the organic act of 1878 it was provided that to the extent to which Congress shall approve of such estimates of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, Congress shall appropriate the amount of 50 per cent thereof, and the remaining 50 per cent of such approved estimates shall be levied and assessed upon the taxable properties and privileges of said District other than the property of the United States and the District of Columbia.
